Comparing the performance of high-resolution global precipitation products across topographic and climatic gradients of Central Asia

Mayra Daniela Peña Guerrero^{1,2,3,4}, Atabek Umirbekov^{1,2,3}, Larisa Tarasova⁴, and Daniel Müller^{1,2,5}

¹Leibniz Institute of Agricultural Development in Transition Economies (IAMO)

²Geography Department, Humboldt-Universität zu Berlin

³Tashkent Institute of Irrigation and Agricultural Mechanization Engineers

⁴Department of Catchment Hydrology, Helmholtz Centre for Environmental Research, Halle (Saale)

⁵Integrative Research Institute on Transformations of Human-Environment System (IRI THESys), Humboldt-Universität zu Berlin

November 2, 2021

Hosted file

Pena-Guerrero_etal_submitted_manuscript_102021.pdf available at <https://authorea.com/users/442208/articles/543976-comparing-the-performance-of-high-resolution-global-precipitation-products-across-topographic-and-climatic-gradients-of-central-asia>